

there is nothing to report except several small advances by our troops to the north-west of Bolzano and in the region of Cembra.

"On the heights of the Mose there is an artillery engagement. In the Woerthe region our heavy artillery holds under its fire the road connecting Thioncourt, Nonard, Buxerelles, and Jehville, which is one of the principal lines of communication of the Germans, near St. Mihiel.

"It is reported that yesterday in the Argonne region an entire regiment of German infantry was annihilated during an operation, which was extended to the wood to the north of Lachalade."

German Official Report.
The report from the German general headquarters issued under date of Sunday morning says:

"The Yser-Tyres canal between Newport and Dixmude was crossed Saturday by further strong German forces, after heavy fighting.

"East-northeast of Ypres the enemy has received reinforcements, but in spite of this our troops have advanced at several points, capturing about 300 British, among them twenty-eight officers, including a colonel."

Another official dispatch from Berlin says that the condition of Gen. Von Moltke, chief of the German general staff, who is suffering from an affection of the liver, is improved.

The Germans, in a mighty effort to gain victory, continue pushing up all the reinforcements that can be spared to the northern battle line.

Many of the German soldiers at Dixmude have come from Berlin within the last few days. Arriving at the scene of battle, they have been sent at once into the trenches, which were waist-high with water. The Belgians, under cover of a fog, approached the trenches and at the point of the bayonet made prisoners of a large number of the invaders.

To add to the trials of the troops, a short spell of fine weather has given place to another downpour of rain, which will convert the lowlands of Flanders into great lakes.

The strategic consequences of this battle of the north, it is felt in some quarters, will be greater to the Germans than to the allies. If it should be necessary for the latter to withdraw, it would be upon the normal lines of the allies without risk. It is declared and the bending of the left wing would not compromise the situation in general.

Peace Fight of Belgians.
"All the allies must take their share off to the Belgian army which for several days has been holding in check two entire German army corps near Dixmude, frustrating the German designs on the strip of territory between Dunkirk and Calais," says a dispatch to the Times from one of its correspondents in northern France. The message continues:

"It is now permitted to explain how the Belgian army was able to take up a position on the Yser canal; in other words, how it was able to make a successful retreat from Antwerp in face of the elaborate plans of the Germans."

"The Belgian army escaped what might be felt amounted to annihilation by a magnificent feat of arms. It sent a river of a few thousand men to the neighborhood of Antwerp (in east Flanders) twelve miles southwest of Ghent) with orders to hold back the enemy at all costs for a sufficient period to cover the retreat of the main army, which hugged the Dutch frontier on its seaward march. The battle of Muiden eventually resulted in the virtual annihilation of the gallant little body of Belgian fighters, but it meant the salvation of the Belgian army and their allies."

Germans Not in Retreat.
"The situation of the Belgians and French at Dixmude has undergone a change for the better in the last few days. This does not mean, however, that the Germans are on the run. Much water will run through the Yser before the Germans will definitely abandon their designs upon the northern coast."

"The reports of a German retreat toward Bruges are anticipatory and exaggerated. The retreat up to the present is a matter of a mile or two, made in order to get farther away from the guns on the warships. The Germans are now entrenched a mile or more inland, and consequently are able to pay less attention to sea attacks."

"The casualties in the Belgian army during its gallant fighting about Dixmude have been heavy, but the spirit of the troops is wonderful."

GERMAN FORCES RALLY TO OPPOSE RUSSIAN ADVANCE

Armies Engaged in Sangunary Battle in Poland; Issue Is in Doubt.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—In Poland a heavy battle is now in progress between the forces of the Russian and German armies, who are engaged in a series of attacks on the German positions, their first attempt to cross the Vistula before the former city have made a stand against the Russians, who have followed in the hope of destroying them.

Both sides have, according to their own reports, made prisoners and captured guns, but the battle, which extends over a front of twenty-six miles, has not yet been decided.

The Austrians are still making a bold effort to cross the river San and are carrying on a splendid fight south of Przemyel in the hope of reaching and recapturing Lemberg.

Russians Report Progress.
PETROGRAD, Oct. 25.—The following communication was issued tonight from general headquarters:

"On Oct. 23 and 24 the Russian troops inflicted several defeats on the German rear guards who were attempting to hold positions along the rivers Rava, Sieroska, and Prylia."

"The Austrians, who were taken by bayonet attacks."

"The Austrians in retreat with the Germans on the roads near Radom, having received reinforcements and profiting by the wooded and rolling character of the region, offered stubborn resistance to our offensive. The fighting developed into an engagement of considerable dimensions. At that place we captured prisoners, cannon, and rapid fire."

Hard Fighting in Galicia.
"Along the river San and south of Przemyel desperate fighting continues. An attempt by the Austrians to turn the Russian left wing south of Przemyel failed, the Austrians suffering great losses."

"An Austrian column which descended the Carpathians near the town of Dolina, twenty-two miles from Bory, has been defeated and dispersed."

AMERICANS FEAR MASSACRE IN SMYRNA BY THE TURKS.
Letters to Chicago from Protestant Churches That Appeals to Washington Are Unheeded.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—A report of a massacre of the consul and American citizens in Smyrna to the American government for a bailiwick have been unheeded are contained in a letter received Saturday by Attorney Henry E. Dillard from Prof. C. Wakefield Lawrence of the International college at Smyrna, Turkey. Prof. Lawrence has been in the Turkish city for more than twelve years, and is in charge of the English classes at the college. He is married and has four children.

The letter was written Sept. 24, and tells of the visit of the United States battleship North Carolina to within a few miles of the entrance to the harbor, which has been heavily mined. The boat did not stop.

Prof. Lawrence sets out the conditions in Turkey as dangerous in the extreme to foreigners, especially English and Americans. He declares that Germany is exerting every influence to drag Turkey into the European war against the allies. "Every Turkish dictator of Turkey," he says, "is a Germanophile."

He points out that in case of hostilities Smyrna would be one of the first places attacked.

He recalls the massacre of Greeks near Smyrna in May and June and continues: "In spite of all these facts well known at Washington, and notwithstanding the repeated and urgent appeals of the consul and American colony in Smyrna to the American government for a bailiwick to give protection and safety here, we are left to the tender mercies of the Turks."

DRIVE MONTENEGRINS BACK AFTER BEING BEATEN TWICE

Servians Admit Their Allies Have Been Forced to Give Way by Austrians on Bosnian Frontier.

NISH, Serbia, Oct. 25.—The Serbian war office has issued the following:

"On Oct. 19 a detachment of the enemy advanced from Metopole, north of Kalmovik (Herzegovina) against the flank of the Montenegrin troops' eastern positions at Kalmovik. A Montenegrin detachment from Borovits, perceiving the enemy's movement, attacked its flank and defeated the Austrians, capturing a mountain gun, nine caissons, and a large number of rifles."

"On Oct. 21 a battle took place all along the Bosnian frontier, both Servians and Montenegrins taking part. The Balkan allies repelled all attacks and took 200 prisoners, including one field officer and four subalterns."

"In view of the enemy's severe attacks, the Montenegrin troops have been compelled to fall back a little behind their positions."

An official statement issued at Vienna on Friday said that Servian and Montenegrin forces, which had penetrated the southeastern Bosnian frontier, were defeated on Oct. 22 after a battle of three days.

WARNED BELGIUM PERMANENT FORT WOULD NOT HOLD

Lord Sydenham, British Export, Back in 1890 Sug-gested Intrenchments.

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
LONDON, Oct. 25.—(Correspondence.)—Speaking of the fall of Antwerp, Lord Sydenham, the leading British fortification expert, states that when he examined Belgium's defenses in 1890 at the request of King Leopold he strongly condemned those of both Liege and Namur and expressed disappointment in the plans then being carried out at Antwerp.

These facts, Lord Sydenham says, he announced at that time, could not have then withstood a concentrated attack by new artillery. This statement led to a controversy with the famous Belgian engineer and author of the defense plans, Gen. Brialmont. But Brialmont was able to convince his government and carry out his plans.

Sydenham's Report to Leopold.
Regarding the forts at Liege and Namur, then under construction, Lord Sydenham says he gave the following reports to Leopold:

"I declared they could not hold their intervals, properly, that their armaments were weak and slow in action and that the places were to be held it could only be done by constructing field intrenchments with artillery and obstacles in the intervals."

"The number necessary to man the field trenches alone I placed at 70,000 men, exclusive of the garrisons of the forts."

"It is clear that in the recent fighting the intervals were neither properly entrenched nor adequately manned. The reason why the Germans failed at the beginning to carry Liege was only because they tried to storm the eastern front without adequate artillery preparation. Nevertheless they entered the town through undefended intervals, and as soon as the artillery came up the forts fell."

Says Belgians Lacked Initiative.
Lord Sydenham does not understand why the Belgian army, following the easy smashing of the lines around Liege and Namur, did not create rough and ready defenses in which he has greater faith than in conventional defenses.

"These conventional defenses of the great engineers invariably prove a disappointment," the critic adds. "They cannot stand the test of experience. The ordinary permanent fort is simply a shell trap, which cannot resist the concentrated fire of modern howitzers. These days the conventional forts are further disadvantageous in that the attacking fire is directed by aeroplanes."

His lordship considers his theory further borne out in the battle along the Aisne. There two vast armies conducted an artillery battle for weeks without either side gaining a material advantage, fighting from the extensive fortifications erected during the course of war.

GEN. SIR CHARLES H. DOUGLAS OF BRITISH ARMY IS DEAD.
Chief of the Imperial General Staff Since 1912—Was a Veteran of Many Wars.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Gen. Sir Charles Witherington Horsey Douglas, chief of the imperial general staff and first military member of the army council, died today.

Sir Charles was appointed chief of staff of the British army on April 1 last, following the resignation of Sir John French, the present commander of the British expeditionary forces on the continent.

He was born in 1850 and had served in all Great Britain's wars since the Afghan campaign of 1879. He had been inspector general of the home forces since 1912, when he was made chief of the general staff.

CHICAGO WOMAN BUYS WAR ARMS

Miss Gladys Lewis Acts as Agent for Nation in Europe.

SEEKS BIG CONTRACT.

New York, Oct. 25.—(Special.)—That a European government has commissioned an American girl to purchase firearms for use along the battle front in Europe developed today when it was learned that Miss Gladys A. Lewis of Chicago is the mysterious "G. A. Lewis" who has been negotiating with the Standard Arms Manufacturing company of Wilmington, Del., for all the military rapid fire guns that concern can make in the next two years, regardless of cost.

The name of the government has been withheld for obvious reasons, but it was confirmed tonight that Miss Lewis is the official representative in the negotiations.

TELLS SCENE IN AUSTRIA AFTER RUSSIAN INVASION.
Professor Says Railroad Stations Are Filled with Wounded, but Doctors Are in Attendance.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—Bernard Parry, professor of Russian history and literature at the University of Liverpool, who is acting as the British government's correspondent at the Russian headquarters, writes as follows, under date of Oct. 24:

"I have spent some days in Austrian territory conquered by the Russians. The large railroad waiting rooms are filled with wounded on stretchers. Doctors and Sisters of Mercy are in constant attendance upon them."

"One poor fellow, a bronzed, strapping lad, had been shot through the lungs. I saw him dying. He looked so pale. His wide opened eyes kept moving as he gasped and wrestled silently with death. He seemed so grateful to those who sat with him. He died early in the morning."

"I talked with three Hunarian privates, keen eyed and vigorous. They said their men were very good with the bayonet and seldom surrendered—a statement which was confirmed by a Russian cavalry officer, who had just returned from fighting in the passes."

"The Slovenes and Bohemians seemed rather in a maze about the whole thing. A Ruthenian soldier of Galicia was very sorry about it. 'Of course we had to go to war,' he said."

"I saw the departure of a train of Russian wounded. They were most brotherly and thoughtful for each other."

"Electric tram cars are used as ambulances and the chief buildings are turned into hospitals. The biggest hospital is served practically by Poles. The large hospital of the Dowager Empress of Russia is well equipped."

REDMOND URGES IRISHMEN TO TAKE PART IN WARFARE

Nationalist Leader Says Thirty-Five Thousand Men from Island Already Are Under Arms.

BELFAST, Ireland, via London, Oct. 25.—Addressing a meeting of Irish volunteers today, John E. Redmond, the Irish Nationalist leader, said that when the Irish government came into being the volunteers must be at the disposal of that government, and he declared that in spite of the emigration Ireland would maintain her place as a fighting nation.

"Ireland's rights," said Mr. Redmond, "are not to be defended merely within the Irish shores. If the manhood of Ireland refused to strike a blow where real fighting is going on the country would be covered with disgrace. Ireland would be humiliated if after the war it had to admit that the safety and liberties of Ireland had been guarded by the sacrifices of other men while Irishmen remained at home and took none of the risks."

Thirty-five thousand men from all parts of Ireland have joined the army.

SOUTH AFRICAN REBELS ATTACK CAPE PROVINCE.
Correspondent at Pretoria Sends Official Message Telling of Battle with German Sympathizers.

LONDON, Oct. 25.—The Pretoria, Transvaal, correspondent of Reuters' Telegram company has forwarded the following official statement:

"Lieut. Col. Maritz, the head of the rebellion in British South Africa, attacked Kaimos (Cape Province), at 5 o'clock on the morning of Oct. 22 with a force of over 1,000 men, including several hundred Germans and artillery and machine guns. Our casualties were ten wounded. The enemy left two dead, one a German and the other a native."

IN THE TRENCHES BEFORE ANTWERP—The earth has been carefully leveled in front and branches and shrubbery placed to hide the riflemen. This is part of the British contingent on the firing line at Lierre, which was the key to the defenses of the Belgian capital.

MASKED BRITISH GUN BEFORE ANTWERP—Heavy artillery fire is now all a matter of trigonometry and higher mathematics, as the gunners never see the target they are aiming at. Aeroplanes have added tremendously to the effectiveness of artillery fire in locating the enemy's position and reporting the effectiveness of the shot. The gun, being fired, is completely masked by trees.

THE LAST DEFENSE OF ANTWERP—This picture was taken at the last line of defense on the Lierre road southeast of Antwerp. A shell is shown bursting near the earthworks and the men are running to cover as the enemy has found the range.

A SOLITARY FIELD-KITCHEN IN FRANCE—With his little oven in a trench, a free for a cupboard, this French army chef is maintaining his nation's pre-eminence in the art of cooking.

FEEDING THE MEN IN THE TRENCHES—Canned corn beef ("bully beef" the soldiers call it) is one of the chief rations. The picture shows some British "blue jackets" getting their supplies.

WASH DAY AT THE FRONT—The traditional trait of the English for cleanliness has not been obliterated even by the battle line discouragements. During a lull in the fighting these British "Tommies" are busy with their washing.

REFUGEES—The only home this family has is a wheelbarrow. A soldier, no doubt thinking of his own "kiddies" trying to make friends with the little folk and cheer them in their sad plight.

COUNTY BOARD TICKET PICKED FROM 3 PARTIES

County Union Indorses 4
Republicans, 4 Progressives, 2 Democrats.

THE County union, recently organized to pass on the qualification of candidates for Cook county offices and perform the duties in the county elections that the Municipal Voters' league does in the city elections, yesterday issued its recommendations of candidates for the county board.

The union picks a ticket drawn from the Republican, Progressive, and Democratic candidates. Alexander A. McCormick is indorsed for president of the county board and for member of the board from the city.

Four Progressive candidates for the county board from the city districts are indorsed—Mr. McCormick, Andrew M. Anderson, Harriet E. Vittum and Mary McDowell.

Four Republicans are selected—George W. Hanson, Herman A. Ott, William J. Roberts and Charles H. Wilson.

Two Democrats complete the list—Peter Reinberg and Daniel Moriarty.

All the Progressive candidates for board members from the country town districts, except John J. Gard, are indorsed. William Basse, Republican, is preferred to Gard. The four Progressives are: Ellsworth M. Board, Avery Conley, Harley E. Mitchell and Shelby M. Singleton.

The report of the union follows:

"To the Voters of Cook County: At the coming election the ballot will contain three or four full party tickets. Some of the candidates are highly objectionable. It is essential for good government that the voters unite upon fifteen good candidates to insure the defeat of those wholly unfit.

The County union has made a thorough impartial investigation of the character, record, and fitness of the nominees for the county board and submits the same, with such recommendations as seem to be justified. This investigation and report are made without political bias, with the sole object of presenting the facts to the voters for their consideration.

Report on Each Candidate.

"We herewith present detailed report on each candidate:

FOR PRESIDENT COUNTY BOARD.

"Alexander A. McCormick—Progressive, 5749 Kimbark avenue; finishing first term as president of county board; editor of Indianapolis Star; editor and publisher Chicago Evening Post, and then general manager Chicago Record-Herald; against three opposition he has put up a Spartan fight for the decent citizen and taxpayer; has insisted upon an accounting by the county treasurer for the interest upon the millions of public money in his charge; worked for a modern, scientific, and economical budget; fought extravagance in every form, and has brought a sympathetic intelligence to bear on the problems affecting the poor, the disabled, and the helpless; nominated last time as a Republican and indorsed by the Progressives, this year he was nominated by both parties by popular vote, a deserved tribute to his record of fearless service; his defeat would be a public misfortune; we earnestly urge his reelection.

CITY MEMBERS COUNTY BOARD RECOMMENDED.

"Andrew M. Anderson—Progressive, 10702 Church street; house builder for twenty-eight years past; finishing first term as county commissioner; voting record excellent; has fought for accounting of county treasurer's interest funds; for appropriation to prosecute election frauds; for prompt payment of nurses' salaries; against extravagance in appropriations; for fair consideration of bureau of public efficiency reports; comes first on the roll call and seems to vote instinctively for the public's interest; plain, un-

The Chicago Tribune.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST NEWSPAPER

FOUNDED JUNE 16, 1847.

ENTERED AS SECOND CLASS MATTER JUNE 2, 1905, AT THE POSTOFFICE AT CHICAGO, ILL., UNDER ACT OF MARCH 3, 1879.

All unsolicited articles, manuscripts, letters, and pictures sent to "The Tribune" are sent at the owner's risk, and the Tribune Company expressly repudiates any liability or responsibility for their safe custody or return.

SPECIAL STATEMENT.

Not paid circulation of "The Chicago Tribune" as reported under oath to the United States government under section of 4974, of the postal laws such as follows, being the average from April 1, 1914, to Sept. 30, 1914:

Daily 308,450
Sunday 45,720

The above figures are estimates of all papers which have been wanted, spotted, returned, duplicated, delivered as complimentary, in exchange, as samples, when mailed or lost, or were late in arriving at their destination, or of papers not paid for, but on which money was paid has been refunded.

MORIARTY AND BARTZEN.

Peter Bartzen says of all the Democratic ticket to which he will give his support Commissioner Moriarty is the exception.

We congratulate Commissioner Moriarty. He has proved throughout his term that he placed honesty and efficiency above spoils and party. He has deserved so well of the fellow citizens that he will be supported by all of them who appreciate courage and public service. But every little while, and the enemy of Bartzen is a testimony to Moriarty's good citizenship which will not be thrown away on the public.

Voices who see clearly enough to realize that when we are choosing custodians of county affairs party labels mean little or nothing will remember that Moriarty stood firm against the greatest spoils pressure throughout his term. For that Republicans and Progressives should vote for him. Democrats should vote for him for that reason, and one more. If Democracy is not wasting and public pillars, Moriarty, who opposed Democratic gangsters, was truer to Democracy than the Bartzen-Burg-Hoyne combination whose tactics he refused to support.

NOT A HAPPY POLICE DEBUT.

THE TRIBUNE is not uncharitable or hypocritical and it wishes the new chief of detectives, Capt. O'Brien, success and luck. But a little candor at the start is the best service his well-wishers can render him. And, frankly, the new detective chief's first speech to his men was not auspicious. It was the regulation speech—stereotyped, stale, and worse than unprofitable. He "knocked" everybody except the police crooks. He assailed the newspapers, the alleged reformers, the politicians, and the tale-bearers of the bureau itself. He did not refer explicitly to the Hoyne charges of corruption in the bureau, but he "covered" them in his generalities. And he gave the bureau as a whole a clean bill of health.

All of this was gratuitous, irrelevant, and in bad taste. The new chief would not be where he is now if the conditions in the bureau had been satisfactory. The recent disclosures before the council committee on crime had nothing to do with politics, elections, or "alleged reform." The Hoyne charge of rottenness will be laid before a grand jury. Some of the detectives may be headed for the penitentiary. He the crooks of the force or the reformers, the business of the head is to fight them, expose them, and get rid of them. Rigor, the accents of honest wrath and independence, of resolution to clean up and improve the department, might impress the crooks; certainly they would reassure the public. But such a speech as the new chief delivered is mereunction to the souls of the crooks and incapables—and distinctly unpleasant and discouraging to the public. Let us hope it was nothing more than thoughtlessness. Let us hope it was not a sign that the new chief is not the man to lead the force. Let us hope it was not a sign that the new chief is not the man to lead the force. Let us hope it was not a sign that the new chief is not the man to lead the force.

CHILD PROTECTION BY INITIATIVE.

A contributor to the Survey, A. J. McKelway, describes an interesting instance of legislation by popular initiative after the lawmaking body of the state had failed to perform a plain duty.

The scene of the drama is Arkansas. The legislature of that state would not or could not, because of "influences," pass a satisfactory measure regulating child labor. At the last session a bill was before the members and some progress was made on it in committee, but in the jam and scramble of the closing days of the term it got lost somewhere.

Then the farmers', women's, and labor organizations bethought themselves of the initiative. With the aid of the national friends of childhood and other agencies a petition was successfully circulated, almost twice the number of signatures required being secured. A measure was then prepared and submitted to the electorate. The measure followed the provisions of the well-considered uniform child labor act. What happened? It proved to be the most popular of the many proposals submitted. It was adopted by a large 2-1 vote.

Unintelligent zeal may mar the referendum or initiative as it mars other institutions. But a sane and judicious use of this check or corrective certainly is calculated to improve the quality of the legislative output. The Arkansas child labor initiative was a sharp object lesson that is not likely to be forgotten soon.

ALIENISTS IN CRIMINAL TRIALS.

The legal difficulties in the way of proper regulation of the use of expert alienist testimony in criminal trials have been pointed out in these columns. Alienists are witnesses as to matters of fact, but witnesses who give opinions; constitutional provisions forbid the exclusion of such testimony when offered by either side. But cannot the court call impartial and additional alienists on its own account?

A report of a committee headed by Prof. Keedy of Northwestern university, referred to the American Bar association, suggests a partial solution of the problem. It favors the summoning of alienists by the court, but not in place of the alienists called by the parties. Moreover, the court's alienists are to be subject to cross-examination by the counsel of the respective parties.

The idea, manifestly, is that the jury would continue to keep its wits, to escape the snares of special pleading and ingenious sophistry, and to retain enough of the impartial alienist testimony to enable it to render a sensible verdict. The step proposed is a very short one, but we should and shall be very grateful. At present we give the bewildered jurors no ray of hope, no thread, however slender, to lead them out of the labyrinth of hypothetical questions and fanciful theories. The infusion of a little disinterested expert testimony would refresh and encourage the jury to seek the light of truth and fact.

DISARMAMENT OR DEFENSE.

A reader reports that President Benton of the University of Vermont declares that "the United States should disband its army, abandon every fort, and sweep its navy from the high seas." But before we were able to welcome President Benton as a consistent and thoroughgoing advocate of "resist not evil," we learn that he also proposes that "we should keep the national guard, West Point, Annapolis, and our drill in colleges."

We are not inclined to believe President Benton was guilty of this folly, and yet if he were he would only be sharing the foolishness of the most conspicuous group of peace propagandists. The contradiction in the proposal is typical of the self-styled pacifists who oppose army and navy measures.

With the pacifist who sincerely believes that neither men nor nations should resist evil, who holds honestly that we should not resort to aggression on moral grounds, but turn the other cheek, it is possible to agree or respectfully to disagree. It is even possible to concede something to one who declares that the evils of war are worse than any other evils, and that resistance is on that ground always a mistake, and preparation therefore a total waste.

But for the fanatical type of professional pacifist who merely try to obstruct military and naval efficiency neither patience nor respect is possible. If these pacifists of the Carnegie-Roosevelt propaganda will advocate the abandonment of the navy except perhaps a few gunboats for minor police work, and the disbanding of the regular army and national guard, we will concede them consistency. But their position seems to be that an army and a navy is at least tolerable if they are only insufficient. Competent defense is "militarism."

Fortunately the common sense of the average Americans does not stomach this sort of thing. The enemy of preparedness is not perverted pacifism, but the good natured optimism and indifference of the American public. An imminent threat of war would wipe that out in an instant—but it might then be too late. Thoughtful Americans should do what they can to bring about consistent and persistent action for the upbuilding of national defense on lines approved not by the ignorance of sentimental laymen but by informed and well-considered judgment.

The propaganda of professional pacifists against "militarism" in America is ridiculous. "Militarism" in this country is considerably less influential than voodooism. The only thing that could develop it is a sharp and costly humiliation, which the ostentatious brand of pacifism is exactly the policy to bring about.

AMERICA AND WORLD'S NEW MAP.

(From Everybody's.)
America's opportunity to do a real world service does not lie in the direction of ascertaining who started the war or who is responsible for it, or whether one side has committed more atrocities than the other side. Nor does America's opportunity lie in the direction of securing most nations. America's opportunity to do a real world service lies in the direction of a clear headed understanding of what this terrible war in Europe means to all the world, and clear headed, disinterested, even generous, suggestions to her sister nations as to the right time to talk peace and the right way to settle all difficulties for the best interests of all the world.

It is too much to expect cool, clear thinking from men engaged in a bitter life and death struggle. America must furnish the cool, clear thinking in these terrible times.

Not only for the best interests of the nations involved but for her own as well, America must definitely make up her mind as to the proper method for a nation to keep herself prepared against attack, without nursing the war spirit and without bankrupting herself. This is not the end of armament probably, nor, more's the pity, is it likely to be the end of war.

What plan does America suggest to her sister nations for solving this problem?

How can such a situation be avoided for the future?

When a new map of Europe is made, what should Europe do about Holland and Belgium and Serbia and Greece and the rest? America should be ready with some cool, clear headed suggestions which by their very common sense must appeal to the nations concerned.

Every great nation has its contribution to make to the sum of human life. We need them all; the nation that makes its contribution to the arts, the nation that makes its contribution to abstract thinking, the nation that makes its contribution to developing the waste places of the earth. When any nation shows a special genius, her sister nations should give her opportunity to develop that genius to the full, for their own sakes. And she in turn should give each of them opportunity. There should be more give and take and there should be less jealousy. And, above all, the commercial spirit should not be allowed to work more than eight hours a day anywhere.

Also we cannot live without the commercial spirit. We must do business. We must make money. We must provide for our daily bread and a little cake all around. But we overdo it. America is commercial, and England and France, and Germany. Russia is waking up. Japan is very much awake. Commercial rivalry has not reached a climax. It will grow keener with the years.

When America is helping Europe to make a new map, what is the matter with making a new world map, giving every nation the room it deserves in which to grow, commercially, intellectually, artistically, but especially commercially? Considering all the undeveloped country in the world, it does seem rather brainless that every nation should not have all the room it needs for development. Not all the room it wants; it may want more than it could use.

Isn't it about time that the nations of the world sat down together and decided world problems instead of waiting until some one nation driven to desperation or urged with conceit, as they choose, upsets the established order of things the world round and leads us back into barbarism, whether we will or no?

America should be thinking these things out. How far would we be willing to go in meeting the other nations in a universal understanding? How much would we be willing to give up if we have more than our share? There's the rub. What is that big government of the future which will bring the biggest worth while life to all mankind? Should we have a United States of North America and a United States of South America, a United States of Europe, a United States of Asia, a United States of Africa or should we have a larger number of smaller federated groups?

THE OBSOLETE RAILWAY STATION.

Sir: When Messrs. Cleveland founded the present Sixth City he discovered near the shore of Lake Erie, and just east of the mouth of the Cuyahoga river, a dark and grimy set of walls evidently deserted by the aborigines as they fled at the approach of the glaciers. The early settlers roamed over these walls and for a long time the structures served the community as a stable. With the advent of civilization came the railroads and the stable was partially cleaned up and put into service as a temporary railroad station, which duty it has been performing ever since. F. A. SANITARIUM TRAINING VALUE.

THIS sanitarium treatment for consumption is the best we have. At that it is far from being a perfect treatment. It is expensive in time and money. It gives good results in early cases and indifferent results in late ones. Finally, when the disease has been created and the patient goes back into life, he must begin over again. When a man has recovered from smallpox, he can safely nurse smallpox. Yellow fever immunizes adventure in yellow fever pestholes. An ex-consumptive must keep away from the place and the people responsible for his disease in the first place.

This is not an easy matter. The man comes out of the sanitarium soft. He is unfit for doing the work that he was accustomed to do.

In addition, the chance is that the kind of work which he did before getting tuberculosis is calculated to make him sick the second time, as it did the first. Yet the majority of the cured cases must go back to the old job, or one like it. The work is the only work he knows.

Perhaps his home was largely or wholly responsible for his disease in the first place. In order to have a good chance to remain well he should have even a better home than the one in which his illness began. But his long illness has impoverished him. He is fortunate if he can live in so good a house as that in which his illness began. All of this looks ominous for the sanitarium taught man facing the world again.

The point of an article by Dr. Washburn of Rutland, Mass., appearing in the Journal of Outdoor Life is that it is spiritless to be soft in flesh, out of training, down in purse. In spite of it all, he can work and live in such a way as to keep in health. If he will, he can venture his home, his work, and his life. He can be a man, and thus convert an unhealthy home into a fairly healthful one.

He can apply what he learned at the sanitarium to his immediate surroundings at his work place and make it a place to work in. Of course, if he worked as a very dusty trade, he must change his occupation, but, in the case of an occupation in which there is only the average danger, the man himself must make the place fairly safe, provided he has the spirit to do so.

To balance the shortcomings of the sanitarium treatment is the training it furnishes. Above everything else the successful sanitarium trainee the spirit.

LA MARQUESE DE FONTENAY.

(Copyright, 1914, by the Brentwood Co.)

At the instance of King George, it is said, the lord mayor elect and the aldermen of London have reconsidered their decision to abstain from the annual banquet of Nov. 9. It will take place as usual, with the customary pomp and ceremony.

This banquet, which signals the inauguration of the new chief magistrate of London, is a national institution, and careful search for precedent has demonstrated the fact that in all the civic history of the last two centuries there has never been a single case of the banquet being abandoned or even postponed.

The dinner is always attended by the principal ministers of state, the leading generals of the army and admirals of the navy, the foreign ambassadors, and, in state, by the most notable personages of the United Kingdom, most of the men being in full uniform, so that the spectacle presented is a very brilliant one.

Premiers have frequently taken advantage of the occasion to present a sort of public exposition of their views, sometimes announcing a new program, so that the lord mayor's banquet has always been looked forward to, both in the United Kingdom and abroad, as an event of much political interest and importance.

At the forthcoming banquet, which is to mark the inauguration of Sir Charles Johnson, the list of speakers will include Prime Minister Asquith, Winston Spencer Churchill, first lord of the admiralty; Field Marshal Lord Kitchener, secretary of state for war, and the French ambassador, Paul Cambon, who is dean of the foreign diplomatic corps; while I understand that Sir Edward Grey, secretary of state for the foreign affairs, is to offer a special toast to England's allies in the present war.

The Austrian and German ambassadors will be conspicuous by their absence, and for the first time in living memory the national anthems of Germany and Austria will be missing from the display of foreign flags.

Some speculation prevails as to whether the Turkish ambassador will attend. But in view of the strained relations between England and the Sublime Porte, relations that are liable to be broken off at any moment, the Ottoman ambassador probably will prefer to keep away; all the more that it is on the cards that either the prime minister or Sir Edward Grey may avail himself of the opportunity to issue a public warning in the name of England to the Turks about the danger of the policy which is now being pursued at Constantinople.

Edward Charles Grenfell, 44 years of age, head of the London branch of the Anglo-American banking house of Morgan, Grenfell & Co., vice president of the International Mercantile Marine, and governor of the Bank of England, arrived in New York from Liverpool the other day for the purpose of consulting with his partners in Wall street and with the principal captains of American finance and industry about the economic conditions created here and abroad by the war.

He is the only son of Henry Riversdale Grenfell, who was also a governor of the Bank of England, and a grandson of old Charles Pascoe Grenfell of Taplow Court, in Bucks.

The Grenfell family is represented in the upper house of parliament by Field Marshal Lord Grenfell, who received his

CANCER OF STOMACH.

Mrs. O. M. R. writes: "What are the symptoms of cancer of the stomach? Is there any cure?"

REPLY.

What you want to know is what symptoms would make you suspect cancer of the stomach and cause you to investigate further. Of first importance is your age. The age of maximum liability is 50 to 60. In Welch's series of 2,000 cases, 25.6 per cent were between 40 and 50, and 44.4 per cent between 50 and 60. Next is family history. Do you belong to a cancer family?

Next is a history of ulcers of the stomach. In Rodman's series of cases, 14 per cent had had ulcers; in Klatsch's series, 20 per cent.

Next is a history of dyspepsia. A prominent sign is a progressive decline of appetite. There may be a sense of oppression in the pit of the stomach after eating. There may be a little pain, and occasionally there is vomiting. If there is vomiting, there may be a little blood in the vomit. The skin begins to show pallor early. The weight begins to drop early. The strength and endurance fail insensibly.

Any one inquiring into his condition and history who can reasonably decide that these details apply in his case should have an examining. When labor, or vomiting, or great wasting appears, it is too late. The examiner will make an analysis of the stomach contents for blood, will examine the feces for blood, will make an abdominal test, and will take an X-ray in addition to making a physical examination.

CHILD IS OVERWEIGHT.

T. W. writes: "My baby is 14 months old, weighs thirty-two pounds, and seems to be in perfect health, but is unable to walk. Do you think he is too heavy? What is the usual age for babies to begin to walk? He has never even tried to crawl. He also becomes warm and perspires freely when he is taking his nourishment, warm milk. What is that caused by?"

REPLY.

1. Yes, he is ten pounds overweight.
2. The average child can walk alone at thirteen months.

3. Lack of food, and especially warm clothes perspiration. Eating is warm work. Over-eating is somewhat risky.

4. The perspiration and inability to crawl at thirteen months suggest it. Fat babies are liable to be rickety. Force him to fall off by decreasing his food. Give more fruit juice, meat juice, soup, and vegetables, and less milk and bread. Do not encourage him to walk. When his legs are ready he will walk. If you make him walk now he will become discouraged or knock-kneed.

ANEMIA AND DANCING.

E. R. B. writes: "Please tell me if it would be all right for me to attend dancing school when I am a little anemic?"

REPLY.

If you are only a little anemic, dancing will help you. If you are anemic enough to materially affect your work, it will not help.

REPLY TO B. F.

Have your physician see you. You may need a heart stimulant or some thyroid extract, or treatment directed to your kidneys. It is not natural for an anemic person to have dancing. That symptom means some disease which may be curable.

peage for his services and victories in the Sudan in the campaigns against the Mahdi, and by Lord Desborough, the present lord of Taplow Court, one of the most charming places on the Thames, which, I believe, is still leased to Rodman Wanamaker of Philadelphia.

Edward Charles Grenfell a year ago married Miss Winifred Henslow. She belongs to an old Cornish family, the members of which were flourishing at Penzance as merchants in the seventeenth century.

Taplow Court is popularly known as "Honeycomb House" owing to the likeness of its present owner, Lord Desborough, to a beehive, and to the fact that the house is a honeycomb of rooms.

For a time the Grenfells were associated in business with Levi F. Motion when he maintained a banking house in London. But this arrangement ceased when the former vice president of the United States withdrew from business in England.

The Grenfells have been extensively interested in South American affairs, having contributed in no small degree to the railroad development of both Brazil and the Argentine republic, while one of them, John Pascoe Grenfell, attained the rank of admiral of the Brazilian navy.

Each generation of Grenfells has contributed governors to the Bank of England. The family is connected by marriage with the ducal houses of Marlborough, Portland, and St. Albans, with the St. Leger, the Greys, the Bulteel, etc., while literature and science may be said to have been represented among their kindred by the family of the late Dr. Max Muller of Oxford, by Anthony Froude, and by Charles Kingsley.

One of the Grenfells, namely, Riversdale, noted over here as a polo player, has already fallen in the war in France. He was an officer of the Ninth Lancers, and his twin brother, Francis, was badly wounded in the same battle, while another brother, Robert, a subaltern of the Twelfth Lancers, fell in the battle of O

FIVE HOMES MADE HAPPIER BY WORK OF GOOD FELLOWS

Charities Agent Tells of Help Extended to Suffering Poor of South Chicago.

The success of the Good Fellow campaign and the constructive nature of the work is illustrated in a report made by Miss Sara A. Brown, superintendent of the South Chicago district of the United Charities, to Eugene T. Liss, general superintendent of the organization.

A representative case is discussed in Miss Brown's report on the Good Fellow work in the family of Mrs. W. Her report says:

"The Good Fellow story of the family of Mrs. W., where the oldest girl is attending night school to become more efficient, and able to take care of the family, made a strong impression.

"One Good Fellow visited the family, took a large bundle of clothing, and gave $5 for food. He has made arrangements with a business college to pay the girl's tuition for the remaining time she is in school and will mail receipts to us.

"The Good Fellow in the W. case sent a letter to the Good Fellow department of the Tribune, enclosing a clipping of the 'case story' of the family and asking to be put in touch with it. He was introduced at the W. home in South Chicago by a district charities worker who was acquainted with the case, and found the way to begin his work of good fellowship made easy for him.

Woman Takes Child Into Home.

Miss Brown's report on Good Fellow work in her district continues:

"In the case of Mrs. L., a deserted woman, although there has been no financial assistance, a Mrs. L. has made arrangements to take the next to the youngest little girl into her home for the winter, and perhaps longer. The mother is delighted.

"Many replies have come in on the family of Mrs. A. A high school teacher came to the office and learned more about them and our work, and made arrangements to pay the rent for the rest of the winter.

Wheaton Good Fellow Helps.

"In the case of the K. family in West Pullman, a man in Wheaton will send a check for $5 a week for the entire winter and also will provide fuel or any other necessities.

"Another Good Fellow for the K. family, although in moderate circumstances himself, has visited the home and taken care of the children, and will provide milk for the children during the winter.

"The story of another W. family brought a number of replies and $10 in cash. A Good Fellow has visited them and made arrangements to make some clothes and provide milk for at least the present month."

Reports Worthy Case.

An officer of the juvenile court came to Good Fellow headquarters yesterday with an appeal worthy of the attention of a Good Fellow.

Up in Milton avenue in lower north district is a "home" consisting of three dark, insanitary rooms occupied by a father and two sons. Six months ago the mother gave up their unequal struggle and died. The father, out of work, became ill. One boy has been at work earning $5 a week. The other, a little chap of about 15 years, went begging to help contribute to the family income.

That led him into trouble with the juvenile court and brought investigation. The court officer found the boy carrying boxes to find stray grains of corn and beans that he carried home to eat.

"When brother gets his pay we have meat for a couple of days when it ain't real week," he explained to the officer.

It's a Matter of Hats—for Co-eds.

It is a matter of hats. And by the same token, if the deliberations of a certain coterie of deliberators are carried to successful issue, every girl in Northwestern will wear the same kind of hat whenever she appears on the campus or thereabouts.

Miss Mabel Wright is credited with the invention of the idea, of which Miss Marie Hakes is a chief sponsor.

Already some dozen girls have been interested, and some dozen sample hats made up. These are on display at Chapin dormitory, and all day yesterday girls were trying on the samples, criticizing and suggesting.

It has been narrowed down now to a question of three or four chapeaux. And upon the final elimination the girls are going to ask the men students to share the responsibility. Four young women, it is said, will appear on the campus today, each wearing one of the samples. A straw ballot of the men in various class rooms will be taken.

The names of the "models" are secret, and it is hoped that whoever reads this will treat the same as confidential. They will be Miss Wright, Miss Lenora Lathrop, Miss Madeline Sadler, and Miss Hazel Rylander.

DENIES JURIES ARE ANTI-LABOR

Commission Secretary Represents Charge Corporation Men Prevail on Venires.

ASKS FOR THE PROOF.

William A. Amberg, secretary of the jury commission, yesterday replied to the charges made before the Lawyers' association that discrimination is practiced against the working class in the picking of juries in Cook county. Mr. Amberg's reply took the form of a complete repudiation of the figures and sense of the report which was made by the lawyers.

The report classified the jurors by occupations and by figures showed that the majority of jurors were chosen from occupations such as presidents and owners of companies, down to corporation secretaries, superintendents and foremen. It further intimated that the majority of out of town jurors were picked from the six "high brow" suburban towns.

Repudiate the Tabulations.

"We entirely repudiate these tabulations," said Mr. Amberg. "The committee that returned this report did not furnish the jury commission a copy of their report until a few days ago, when an appointment was made with the commission for the following day. The committee of two lawyers called and spent three hours in discussing their grievances."

"We felt when they left that they were fairly well satisfied with the actions of the jury commission in the selection of jurors. The committee of lawyers has always taken snap judgment without giving the jury commission a hearing at their meetings. They have always announced that we were invited to their meetings, but we have never received the invitations."

Ask for Basis of Charges.

"We have asked Attorney Lally, chairman of the committee, to furnish us with a list of the venires from which he has made his tabulations."

"The complaint several years ago were that we failed to compel the so-called better class of men to serve on juries."

Members of the Lawyers' association are said to have complained that in numerous personal injury suits where the defendant was a corporation employee, the venires were corporation employees who were afraid to return more than a small verdict for the plaintiff.

FATHER AND SON BURIED

James Diamond Dead After Half Century in Chicago.

ROBBERS KILL SON JOHN.

Blow Received While He Resisted Proves Fatal.

A father 80 years old and his son, John, 47, were buried yesterday at Mount Carmel. The elder, James Diamond, had lived in Chicago half a century. He died last Friday at his residence, 5148 West Arlington street. A few hours before he breathed his last the son died in his home at 1462 Foster avenue.

Both funerals met at 1 o'clock in the afternoon at Madison street and Kedzie avenue. From that point the double cortège proceeded to the cemetery. More than 100 automobiles were in the funeral procession.

Native of Ireland.

James Diamond was a native of Ireland. He is survived by his aged widow and three sons. The death of John was the first to take place in the family.

An injury incurred while resisting the attack of a robber was the cause of John's death. A few months ago he was riding on a Southport avenue car when his pocket was picked. Diamond's wife was with him, but owing to the crowded condition of the car they were separated.

Hears Him Call "Help!"

Mrs. Diamond heard a commotion in the rear of the car and recognized the voice of her husband, calling "Help!" She tried to reach him, but was unable to force her way through the aisle.

Diamond grappled with the thief, who stole his pocketbook, containing $80. A confederate of the robber struck Diamond in the face. Diamond succeeded in throwing one of the thieves to the floor of the car. No one came to his assistance.

While struggling with the man on the floor Diamond was hit on the head with a billy by a pal of the other. This felled him, and both robbers sprang upon him.

Business

Two men are walking in the street. Both wear expensive clothes. Toward one—the less conspicuous—you are attracted. The other repels you. He is civilized, you say, but his clothes are not successful.

The difference between these men is difficult to define.

But one of these men gets your approval while the other does not.

Why?

It takes a French word to fit the case—ensemble.

The well dressed man wears a hat that not only fits his head but fits the rest of his clothes as well.

There is harmony from hat to shoes.

His attire is the expression of good taste and the result of expert attention.

The clothes of the well dressed man came from a store where good taste is a part of the equipment and expert advice is the complement of merchandise.

Although our stocks are made up after a careful sifting of materials and designs, we are prepared to present for your selection an enormous variety of "ideas" in custom shirtings for fall and winter wear.

importance as compared with the other bill.

Always Favored Budget.
Under the budget system appropriations can be kept down, they can be handled scientifically and they can be shaped, as a part of the whole, from the beginning. It is incomparably better than the present hit and miss style.

"You Bet Your Life"—Thomson.
Charles M. Thomson, Progressive, of Chicago, was the next congressman interviewed. After reading the pledge Mr. Thomson said:

"You bet your life. That is just exactly right."
Mr. Thomson represents the Tenth district. His predecessor, whom he defeated in 1902 and who is running against him again, was George Edmund Foss, for ten years chairman of the house naval affairs committee. Under the chairmanship of Foss navy "pork barrel" appropriations increased. His policies were steadily opposed by navy officials who were seeking a scientific upbuilding of the sea forces of the United States.

Mann Too Busy to Talk.
Minority leader Mann was seen by the correspondent during the day. Mr. Mann read the pledge over hastily and then said he was too busy to give it consideration. The correspondent insisted that it was just as important as any matter that might come before the house. Mr. Mann pleaded other business, however, and would not sign.

Congressmen Scott and Prouty of Iowa were found together. The former is a candidate for reelection. The latter is not. As the pledge is being submitted only to candidates, it was not offered to Prouty. However, he looked over Scott's shoulders. As he finished reading it, Prouty said: "That meets my views exactly."

Mr. Scott said it met his views also, and he declined to sign it.

Two Others Decline to Sign.
Congressmen Foster and Borchers of Illinois also read it and declined to sign it. Mr. Foster favors a small army and a small navy.

"I am against 'pork' in every manner, shape, and form," he said. "I fought the rivers and harbors bill in this congress and I have fought it in previous congresses. As for the army and navy, however, I think it is just as essential to build up a sentiment for peace as it is to build up a great navy and a great army. I believe in an adequate defense, but I think the peace sentiment more important."

What Rainey Has to Say.
Representative Rainey of Illinois takes direct issue with the Tribune on the rivers and harbors bill, which was defeated. Mr. Rainey had this to say of the pledge:

"I am not unqualifiedly opposed to the rivers and harbors bill, which was defeated at the present session of congress. I voted for the bill when it left the house. It contained many items of interest to Illinois. It recognized the rights of the upper Mississippi river and provided for extending government aid for levees for the first time as far north as Rock Island, Ill."

Beaten by Foes of Illinois.
The fight against it in the senate was managed largely by senators whose opposition to the improvement of the rivers in our section has been well understood for years.

"There were few items in the bill when it left the house that were objectionable from any standpoint, and most of the items put on in the senate could be defended successfully. In my judgment the bill was not open to the charge that it was a 'pork barrel measure.'"

"I do not think the items in our rivers and harbors bills are 'indiscriminate' and 'unscientific,' and these charges cannot be made successfully against the bill which was defeated."

Favors Water Improvements.
Every item in every river and harbor bill has been approved by government engineers, who have paid fixed salaries. There are at the present time no 'unscientific' river and harbor bills.

"I have always been an ardent advocate of river and harbor improvements, and while there may have been some items in the bill that ought not to have been there, on the whole I regret its defeat."

"Public buildings should be standardized. This would diminish greatly the cost of the same and would make it possible to build them soon after they are authorized."

"I am not opposed to the building of public buildings when the national finances permit it, provided they are not built in towns that are too small or where they are not needed."

Favors Budget System.
"I favor an efficient budget system. We ought to have it at once. I believe it to be the only way by which appropriations can be regulated and kept within bounds."

"Contrary to the general impression created by newspaper unfriendly to the administration throughout the country, the appropriations made by the present congress for the current fiscal year are $17,000,000 less than they were last year, leaving out of consideration the post-office appropriation bill, which, on account of the parcel post extensions, was considerably larger than it ever has been."

"The postoffice appropriation bill, however, ought to be left out of consideration for the reason that the deficit in that department has been wiped out and the postoffice department is now paying its own way."

"Pork" in Army and Navy Bills.
"I would like to see the newspapers of the country make a vigorous fight against the 'pork barrel' measures contained in our army and navy bills. These bills are full of features that are good."

"Government navy yards are located where they are not needed. The government is held up by manufacturers of armor plate in this country to an extent the people of the country do not appreciate."

"Army posts are maintained in the east where they have not been needed since the war of 1812. They are maintained throughout the west where they have not been needed since the last Indian war."

give his unqualified disapproval to the recently defeated rivers and harbors bill. In making allotments of the money appropriated by congress for river and harbor work after the pork barrel bill was defeated the army engineers passed upon the bill. Mr. Cooper, however, is willing to pledge himself against "pork barrels" in general and in particular and also against "log rolling." He offers this promise to his constituents:

"I elected I shall insist upon the elimination of indiscriminate and unscientific appropriations for river and harbor and public building bills and upon the suppression of the practice of 'log rolling' to prevent them from in any way becoming 'pork barrel' bills."

"I particularly resent the perversion of army and navy appropriations to 'pork barrel' purposes and shall insist that congress appropriate and legislate for the army and navy with the single intention of creating armed forces capable of defending the United States from aggression by any nation. I am strongly in favor of legitimate river and harbor improvements."

Two Answers Not Received.
A copy of the pledge was handed to Congressman Lieb of Indiana.

"I'll read it and let you know," Lieb said. He hurried away, but his reply has not been received.

His colleague, Congressman Gray, however, on reading the pledge said it was too tame.

"I go even stronger than that," he said. He declined to sign it because he doesn't believe, he said, in signing pledges just before election.

Congressman Morrison of Indiana, to whom the pledge was offered as he started for the station to catch a train home, asked that it be mailed to him in Indiana, where he could consider it more carefully.

ATTACK "TRIBUNE" STAND.
Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—The national rivers and harbors congress today issued a statement attacking the Tribune because of its fight on the recent $93,000,000 river and harbor "pork barrel" and also because of its advocacy of the creation of a river and harbor board to supervise internal waterway improvements.

"In a recent editorial the Tribune urged the creation of a national river and harbor board, similar to the boards which conduct the harbors of England, to compute the cost of proposed improvements, the income to be derived from them, and proper terms to be fixed for the use of the waterway improvements."

"The rivers and harbors congress, through Joseph Teal of Oregon, says: 'This proposition strikes at the very life of the waterways as instrumentalities of commerce and industry. It is a direct attack upon the life of the nation. The recent "pork barrel" was attacked largely on the ground that millions of dollars were appropriated for rivers which are not capable of carrying traffic and which never will be capable of carrying it.'"

"I am opposed to the excesses in the rivers and harbors appropriation bill defeated in the second session of the Sixty-third congress. If elected I shall insist upon the elimination of indiscriminate appropriations for future rivers and harbors and public buildings as I always have done, as proven by my leadership in the defeat of the public buildings bill in 1911."

"I shall insist upon the creation of a house of senate budget system governing all congressional appropriations. I shall insist that congress appropriate and legislate for the army and navy with the single intention of creating armed forces capable of defending the United States from aggression by any nation, but believe the government should teach peace and practice peace in every possible way, that war eventually may be banished from our civilization and from the earth."

Haugen Quick to Sign.
Congressman Haugen, senior member of the Iowa delegation, subscribed his name heartily. Haugen was one of the first independent Republicans in the house. His colleague, Congressman Goode, chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee, preferred to make his own pledge. Here is his:

"I am unqualifiedly opposed to the rivers and harbors appropriation bill recently defeated, and also to such similar measures. As long as I am a member of congress I shall insist upon the elimination of indiscriminate appropriations for projects that are not of general benefit to the public, whether it be for river and harbor purposes or for any other purpose, and I will insist that the government do not warrant a reasonable investment by the government."

Public Building Wise Policy.
"I believe, however, that it is a wise policy that the government has established to building public buildings in towns where the business of the community and work of the government justify."

"A custom of cooperation between the departments and various committees making the appropriations should be established which I believe would eliminate a large part of the so-called 'log rolling' methods of making appropriations, and many millions of dollars could thus be saved by the government without in any way impairing the service to the people."

Congressman Cooper of Wisconsin, another of the early insurgents, declines to give his unqualified disapproval to the recently defeated rivers and harbors bill.

In making allotments of the money appropriated by congress for river and harbor work after the pork barrel bill was defeated the army engineers passed upon the bill. Mr. Cooper, however, is willing to pledge himself against "pork barrels" in general and in particular and also against "log rolling." He offers this promise to his constituents:

"I elected I shall insist upon the elimination of indiscriminate and unscientific appropriations for river and harbor and public building bills and upon the suppression of the practice of 'log rolling' to prevent them from in any way becoming 'pork barrel' bills."

"I particularly resent the perversion of army and navy appropriations to 'pork barrel' purposes and shall insist that congress appropriate and legislate for the army and navy with the single intention of creating armed forces capable of defending the United States from aggression by any nation. I am strongly in favor of legitimate river and harbor improvements."

DEMOCRATS RUN IN DEBT PRINTING MANY SPEECHES.
National Committee Goes Bankrupt Issuing Campaign Literature and Appeals for More Money.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—The Democratic national committee has followed the Democratic congressional campaign committee into bankruptcy because of tremendous expenditures for the printing of political speeches.

Thomas J. Penic, in charge of the national committee headquarters, tonight issued an urgent call for help from loyal Democrats. He said that while the preliminary report of the treasurer showed a balance of over $20,000, the committee has wiped this out with the payment of printing bills and gone into debt besides.

"There is now outstanding approximately $12,500 of indebtedness," said Mr. Penic, "largely incurred for printing."

"The financial report of the Republicans is to be filed with the clerk of the house tomorrow. Members of the congressional committee tonight declined to disclose the figures. It is believed, however, it will show a stringency similar to that in the Democratic statements."

There is a certain touch about these imported pieces that is lacking in most American reproductions. On the other hand, the price for one of these English chairs with all the detail properly carried out is only a trifle more than is charged for a similar piece made in this country.

To illustrate this fact we point to the chair shown above, which is full of interesting detail, carefully executed, but costs only $29. It is a good example of the high-quality medium-price character of this furniture.

There are also several pieces made entirely of old material, and which consequently possess that mellowed and worn appearance which characterizes the antique. In every case they have been built up along the lines of known prototypes.

An inspection of this importation will interest you whether or not you contemplate making a purchase.

BURLESON BACKS TRIBUNE'S FIGHT ON PORK BARREL

Wilson Aid One of Many Who Indorse Move to End "Log Rolling" Graft.

THE TRIBUNE'S plan for the elimination of the "pork" graft in national congressional appropriations and the placing of national expenditures on a business budget basis yesterday won further approval from congressional candidates.

Postmaster General Burleson, in Chicago for a few hours, placed himself on record as favoring the movement. Numbers of candidates for congress, in addition to the roster of those from the Chicago districts published in yesterday's TRIBUNE, sent special delivery letters of indorsement.

Moore Leader Indorses Fight.
Among these letters was one from Representative W. H. Hinebaugh of Ottawa, Ill., the chairman of the Twelfth district Progressive national congressional committee.

Scores of answers to the letters addressed to the candidates of Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, Wisconsin, and Iowa are expected today.

"There is no question that the budget system advocated for national expenditures by the Tribune will eventually be adopted for all federal appropriations," said Postmaster General Burleson. "President Wilson favors such a system."

"There may be some difficulty in bringing this reform about. At present the congressional committees in charge of the appropriations for the various departments of the government are naturally jealous of each other. Each committee strives to procure the largest possible appropriations for its department. The budget system will place the apportionment of the appropriations on a scientific, business-like basis."

Hinebaugh Gives His Pledge.
Representative Hinebaugh wrote in part as follows:

"I take great pleasure in indorsing your plan. The sentiments expressed in your communication are unqualifiedly mine and if reflected to congress I shall certainly do everything in my power to prevent the practice of log rolling in rivers and harbors appropriations and in legislation of all kinds. As a member of the great appropriations committee I am strongly in favor of a budget system for all appropriations."

The name of Congressman Charles M. Thomson, Progressive candidate for reelection in the Tenth district, Chicago, was omitted from the list of local candidates that had subscribed to the "pork barrel" movement. Mr. Thomson, it develops, has wiped this out with the payment of printing bills and gone into debt besides.

"There is now outstanding approximately $12,500 of indebtedness," said Mr. Penic, "largely incurred for printing."

"The financial report of the Republicans is to be filed with the clerk of the house tomorrow. Members of the congressional committee tonight declined to disclose the figures. It is believed, however, it will show a stringency similar to that in the Democratic statements."

WHO ROBBED SERGEANT PAT?
If Detective Finds Who Took Ten Warrants He'll Ask Some Questions.

Detective Sergeant Patrick Murphy is sure no thief would have dared to steal with which he started from the Chicago avenue police station last night are missing. Murphy realized his loss while he was riding on a Racine avenue car between Grand avenue and Thirty-second street. He offers a reward for the return of the warrants—but he doesn't contract not to ask any questions.

There is a certain touch about these imported pieces that is lacking in most American reproductions. On the other hand, the price for one of these English chairs with all the detail properly carried out is only a trifle more than is charged for a similar piece made in this country.

To illustrate this fact we point to the chair shown above, which is full of interesting detail, carefully executed, but costs only $29. It is a good example of the high-quality medium-price character of this furniture.

There are also several pieces made entirely of old material, and which consequently possess that mellowed and worn appearance which characterizes the antique. In every case they have been built up along the lines of known prototypes.

An inspection of this importation will interest you whether or not you contemplate making a purchase.

matter," he said, "and it set forth my position as to such appropriations. I was glad to subscribe my name to it."

"My first experience with such bills was in the consideration of the rivers and harbors bill last spring. Money was lavishly appropriated to improve rivers that were so dry they should have been insured against fire. 'Pork' is worse than waste; worse than poor business policy—it is graft, pure and simple."

"The budget system is the method any up to date business house would use in making appropriations. Why should the government not use it?"

Iowan Opposes Pork.
John Wallace Cooper, Progressive candidate in the Second district of Iowa, wrote from Davenport:

"I resent the malicious perversion of army and navy appropriations to 'pork barrel' purposes, and shall insist that congress appropriate and legislate for the army and navy with the single intention of creating armed forces capable of defending the United States."

Edward I. Williams, Republican candidate in the Eighth Chicago district, writes:

"I am absolutely opposed to the present method of making appropriations for the 'pork barrel.'"

"Appropriations involving huge sums that run in the millions should be taken up by some committee that would have the time and facilities to investigate thoroughly every item of expenditure, eliminating all useless appropriations."

"With the south in the saddle, making the middle west stand the bulk of the internal tax caused by unnecessary appropriations for 'pork' and the absolute necessity in time of peace, the present critical situation should make it citizens sit up and take notice."

More Line Up Against Pork.
Others who pledged themselves to fight for the elimination of "pork barrel" bills and whose replies were received during the day were:

Harry M. Ashton, Progressive candidate, First district, Chicago.

William W. Wilson, Republican candidate, Third district, Chicago.

Dr. E. F. Napier, Progressive candidate, Fifth district, Chicago.

Of the thirty candidates in the ten local districts, all but five have indorsed the project.

DRUNKENNESS
Herodotus, 400, B. C.

Wrote that "Both mind and body are temporarily, if not permanently, diseased, following the use of alcoholic liquors."

There are abundant proofs in the world's medical and scientific literature and in your own observation of the many "wrecks" of formerly good men in your community of the fact that continued indulgence in the use of alcohol, or in the use of drugs "stored up" in the system, creates a condition known as NEURALgia, and restores NORMAL mental and physical conditions in a few days. If unable to influence that neighbor or friend to take the NEAL Treatment, send up his name and address, and we will mail him literature.

SHERMAN MAKES NOT ANSWER TO COL. ROOSEVELT

Charges Moose Leader with Deliberate Misrepresentation of Allen Bill Facts.

state in the union, would have had two seats in the senate if the deadlock had not been broken as it was.

"Mr. Lorimer and myself have not been in accord in the Republican party for over fifteen years. Every person in Chicago who knows anything of public affairs knows this. Mr. Lorimer defeated me many times in conventions and elections. I have a distinct recollection that Mr. Roosevelt's federal patronage, when he was president was used against me in my party struggles with Mr. Lorimer.
Mr. Lorimer, however, and myself both respected Republicans during our differences.

Never Had a "Machine."
"I never had a machine in my life.
Neither a payroll nor an organization has ever been mine. If I have or ever had any political strength it comes solely from the voters of Illinois who have supported me in state wide primaries and state wide elections. If this be a machine the colonel is welcome to criticize it."

"The colonel quotes from the National Popular Government league. He is an expert in getting behind somebody else.
He quotes Mr. Jones, a former state senator. Mr. Jones' mentality is so well known that few Illinois people would have anything he says a foundation for either a charge or an argument. With Mr. Jones I never talked in my life on any subject.

What He Said to Jones.
"Mr. Jones has either lost track of his soundings or is suffering from a chronic inability to speak the truth. I never had any conversation with Mr. Jones and Nell McCormick save to say to Mr. Jones that his statements concerning a Lorimer and Sherman alliance were utter falsities, to which Mr. Jones took no exceptions. Others were present in this conversation.

Col. Roosevelt condemns all bipartisan alliances as evil. Did it occur to him and his associates that people could form a bipartisan alliance? Has Chicago forgotten in 1908 when the Mussell bill providing for municipal ownership of street railways was passed by a bipartisan alliance?

Recalls Good Bipartisan Bill.
"It is well known that Mayor Harrison of his friends combined with Mr.
Lorimer and myself and our friends and formed a house reorganization for the express purpose of obtaining roll calls on the bill which afterwards passed and is the statute today.

"The colonel's denunciation of bipartisan alliances ignores the fact that twenty-three out of twenty-seven Progressive members of the legislature for some time agreed to support Frank H. Park for the short term and myself for the long term for United States senator.
It required the seventy-five Republicans and twenty-seven Progressives to elect.
One vote could prevent a choice. At this time it becomes clear why the four Progressive members refused to go with the overwhelming majority of twenty-three of their associates.

Says "Boss" Was in Oyster Bay.
"These twenty-three men were chosen by the voters of this state in 1912. They knew conditions intimately in the legislature. It now appears from the colonel's Coliseum speech that the bossless Progressive party had a boss in the Illinois legislature who lived at Oyster Bay,
a thousand miles away. This is why Mr.
Park is not today a United States senator.
None of the twenty-three whom Roosevelt by implication denounces are candidates for reelection to the legislature now.

"The twenty-three Progressive mem-of the Bankers' club of Chicago

hotel Saturday night.

bers and the seventy-five Republican members formed a bipartisan alliance.
Does Roosevelt condemn all those who were willing to join in it? The colonel has recently at Erie, Pa., advised the Progressive party in that state to fuse with the Democrats. His bipartisan alliances are highly virtuous!

Takes Up Newspaper Criticism.
"The newspapers quoted by Mr. Roosevelt have not continued their criticisms of me. In 1890, following my election as speaker of the Illinois house, the Chicago Record said that whatever error I had committed in supporting the Allen bill were amply balanced by its repeal and the passage of other remedial legislation needed by Chicago.

"The chief claim of Roosevelt's party is social justice. If any lingering vestige of fairness remains in him or his followers in Chicago, why am I not given credit for an honorable part in the repeal of the Allen law and in a long list of laws enacted for the benefit of Chicago and advancing social justice for the workmen of the entire state? If a public officer is to be charged with his mistakes, is it not fair to credit him with what he has done
when he is right?

Colonel Handling "Dead Issues."
"The Chicago newspapers he named have since 1890 had frequent occasion to approve my course in the legislature, and Chicago voters have three times at the polls given me their unqualified indorsement. The colonel now takes up matters which have been repeatedly passed on by the people of Illinois favorably to myself. He is handling burnt powder and dead issues. Still he says he is Progressive.

"It is well known in 1890, as speaker of the house, I appointed a committee which reported out a bill to repeal the Allen law. I was in the chair when it was called up. I even helped to prepare the repeal bill, so that its title would be free from constitutional objections. I saw that it had a roll call. Its repeal was almost unanimous. During eight years as presiding officer either in the house or the senate I seldom voted.
"No one but a novice would claim I was of no service in legislation when, as presiding officer, it rested more heavily on my shoulders than any other member of the legislature.

Tells of Gas Act.
"The gas consolidation act of 1897 had but a partial opposition from the Chicago press and people. The colonel is an expert in telling half truths, which are worse than complete falsehoods. Gas, like many other public utilities in a large city, is a monopoly. There is but one way to handle it.

"While presiding officer of the senate,
with my associates there, we caused to be enacted a law giving the Chicago city council the power to fix the price of gas to the consumer. I believe in the regulation of public utilities in this way. The people of Chicago have not forgotten this regulating act.

"The colonel says he appointed thousands of men to office every year and issued lithographed commissions to them.
The position to which he appointed me in 1897 was equivalent to a federal judgeship.

"He had before him and well knew my entire public life before he appointed me. He could not have removed me after my appointment except for cause. His attack now is purely political. The colonel has a strange propensity for turning on men who refuse to become his pliant tools.

Progressives Bossless?
"The people are entitled to an insight into the movement of the Progressive party. It is described by its friends as "bossless." It has no separate existence aside from Mr. Roosevelt. Its essential virtue is that it has but one boss and one prophet and that is the colonel.

"Instead of trying to destroy the Republican party and its candidates, why do they not give some remedy for existing ills? What constructive measures has Mr. Roosevelt for? What does he propose to do?

"He wishes to elect Raymond Robins senator from Illinois. Mr. Robins is a single taxer. The charge is so fastened upon him that he is unable to escape.
Like the shirt of Nessus, it is burning him to the bone. The farmers of Illinois are awake on what single tax means linked with Mr. Robins. Roosevelt must answer in the future to the American farmer for endeavoring to elect to the United States senate a single taxer.

Says It Means Confiscation.
"I repeat deliberately it will confiscate farm values. Mr. Roosevelt has started an issue that will come home to plague him in the future. Mr. Robins takes refuge recently in the United States constitution which he says prohibits congress from laying a direct tax on land.
One of Mr. Robins' hobbies is an aversion to the constitution. The fourth annual single tax conference on Jan. 24, 1914, went on record as favoring the following amendment to the federal constitution:

"Congress shall have power to levy and collect a direct tax on land value without apportionment to the several states and without regard to any census or enumeration.

Roosevelt Linked with Move.
"This is a part of the single tax propaganda by Mr. Robins' associates and friends. The National Popular Government league quoted by Roosevelt is hopelessly joined with single taxers that support it from end to end. This wraps Mr.
Roosevelt up with the single tax movement in the United States. In this predicament I leave both him and Mr. Robins to be dealt with by the outraged farmers and real estate owners of Illinois."

SAFE BLOWERS GET $400.
Raid Proctor & Gamble's Offices
After Gaining Entrance from Fire Escape.
Safe blowers escaped with about $400 which they obtained from a safe in the Proctor & Gamble Distributing company's offices at 249 West Ontario street some time between Saturday afternoon and yesterday morning. Nitroglycerin was used to blow off the door. The men gained entrance by climbing a fire escape and forcing open a door on the second floor.
They are believed to have jumped from the top of box cars to the fire escape.

CARMAN JURY FAILS TO AGREE

smiles and suspicious indications of an early decision.

Some one suggested that a ballot be taken, that seeming the simplest method to obtain the general impression left by the testimony of both sides, and so a ballot was cast. It showed that nine were for acquittal, and that three—Aston, Hovey, and Marx Gottsch—were for conviction.

An explosion in the pleasant atmosphere which had surrounded the preliminary remarks of the jurors occurred when Robert Ludlum, the foreman, suggested that it would be more to the point if the jurors for conviction would confine their deliberations to the testimony instead of their own inferences, and another ballot was taken. It showed that Gottsch had been won over to the side for acquittal, while Hovey and Aston remained unshaken.

Ask for Maid's Testimony.
It was at this point, only fifteen minutes after Judge Kelly had charged the jury and sent them out, that a loud knock resounded in the courtroom. The court clerk hastened to the jury door and opened it to find Mr. Ludlum standing at the threshold and explaining in whispers that certain portions of Cella Coleman's testimony was desired.

The opening of the door sent a report flashing through the building that the jury had already reached a decision and wished to report.

Mrs. Carman, very pale and presenting as pathetic a picture as can be imagined, was brought into the courtroom from the small antechamber to which she had retired with her husband when the jury went out.

Eager attendants at the trial whose vigilance had permitted them to stray no farther than the corridors outside dashed in and scrambled for seats. Just as everybody had let their wits run riot with expectancy the clerk stepped to the front and explained the mistake.

Meantime the jury took five ballots in as many hours without changing the apportionment of their opinions. During this time their arguments grew constantly more splanetic and the hope of an eventual agreement faded farther as the night progressed. After the third ballot the suggestion was launched that they might find themselves of accord on a second degree of murder or possibly on a verdict of manslaughter.

But the arguments over evidence and the credibility of witnesses which arose out of this suggestion increased the mutual hard feeling between Aston and Hovey on the one side and the remaining ten on the other to such a pitch of an-tagonism that it brought no result.

Colby's Offer a Chippendale Bed- room Set of Rare Quality and Modest Price

There is a strong revival of old Chippendale models, showing Chinese influence. It is furniture well suited to modern needs.

This Chinese Chippendale Set is built on simple, sturdy lines suggesting enduring service.
The details of decoration are quaint and interesting, and have the added charm of being out of the ordinary.

We have never offered a bedroom set with mahogany of such beautiful grain and color. The workmanship leaves nothing to be desired, including hand-carvings, solid mahogany interiors, and Imported Chippendale hardware.

The color of the mahogany in this Set is a mellow, antique tone that will interest you, and you have a choice of antique mahogany or ivory and buff enamel.

THE American people, speaking of the company of that name, seldom fall short in their pictorial interpretations of cross sections of sentiment. Not very often do their productions oblige the observer to shrink into himself and apologize to his eyes for introducing them to situations they rather not meet. Instead, in the hands of "Flicking A" actors and directors, sentiment is transmuted into often a very shining and beautiful substance which is good to be seen.

Today's release is of that manner. It relates a very simple story, but so clothed in delicacy of interpretation, so graced with attractive and nicely mannered players, and so beautifully placed scenically that it commends itself to the observer as a pure bit of artistic accomplishment.

Vivian Rich, who can look charming in rag-tags, does so well wearing as well mannered of wildwood simplicity that makes one, forgetting her accomplishments with opera cloaks and plumed hats, think of her as a forest girl, peering wonderingly at a different kind of life than any she knows, through the haunting window of that well known picture of Sir Galahad and his white steed, which she had discovered left in a deserted camp.

She is called Clotilde, and she has a sweet, girlish, curly, kind hearted Jaques, who won her with the St. Bernard type of fidelity and cuts her initials with his on a tree trunk, heart endorsed. When her father's death approaches he commends her to the care of Jaques, and a girl, all unknowing of love, the romance in her nature just vaguely set afloat by the picture which has drifted into her life, she is married to him before her father's fading vision. It must be said, too, that the father fades very nicely, with most of the mortal agonies subordinated from sight, which marks considerable improvement in pictorial dying.

So they live, and happily, for several months when, in a wondrous strange and fair young man rides across Clotilde's path. Moreover, he saves her from a rude woodman's insult, and best of all he informs her of her cherished picture. He is a man to fill a maiden's dreams—naturally, being Billy Caswell—and soon, in Clotilde's fancy his own particular good looking head is substituted for the original in Sir Galahad's stylish suit of mail.

This is distinction more than the vanity of any mortal man covets, and, like Clotilde's delightful self, means the coming of a youthful love in which the kind, clumsy Jaques had naturally no share.

But they are very honorable young people, and when Clotilde sends Dick away by a little note, telling him that she loves him, but would not hurt her kind Jaques, he goes.

Then the scene, which would, in so many pictures, have drained away all the originality. Instead of obviously killing Jaques in an ensuing saloon incident, he is merely severely injured, brought home by Dick, and then allowed to recover. Though, in spite of his goodness I wished him out of the way, I was tremendously thankful for his restoration.

Miss VIVIAN RICH—AMERICAN

to health, and consequent rescue from triteness.

While Clotilde is kind to Jaques, he considers in his mind the substance of her note to Dick, which he had managed surreptitiously to read. He considers to such moment that he decides to be as relatively kind to her, so leaving her a note and kissing her a tender good-by, he goes out in the night and plunges off the sheer peak of Twilight mountain. There he is found in the pink dawn by Clotilde, and also coincidentally by Dick, who stands shamed before the great sacrifice of the man, and explains to the shivering girl: "There is your real knight, your Sir Galahad."

It may not be the custom for chivalric gentlemen to fling themselves off high mountains in order that their wives may find happiness with more carefully chosen husbands, but there are heroic sacrifices made in the world of emotion, and this is a very convincingly beautiful illustration of some such situation. The picture doesn't make one unhappy or morbid, but rather freshened and renovated. It is a so nicely handled and pictorially it is a joy.

A modification of the gathered skirt was used. The sides of the skirt were laid in wide plaits. There was a short yoke across the front and the back to which the panels were gathered. The waist was perfectly plain, with set in sleeves ending in little cuffs of white lawn. A waistcoat of tan and white check gave a touch of color to the frock and an inner waistcoat

Fashions from London

By Bessie Ascough

Ideal Materials for Hard Usage.

LONDON.—(Special Correspondence.)—Serge is one of the most attractive of the popular materials this season, and it is used for all sorts of charming street frocks. It shares with gabardine the leadership of the couturiers and of their customers. These two fabrics are enjoying a popularity which they deserve, for they are ideal materials for the hard usage which street frocks are given.

There is an evident attempt here to make frocks durable, or at least to make them seem so. It is the fashion of the moment to have much to do with that. We all have a feeling that we cannot robe ourselves in frivolous gowns when we know that our countrymen are dying. There is scarcely one of us who has not some loved one on the field.

This little frock which I have sketched is a creation of war times in only one feature. It is fashioned of the most durable of the new serges. It can be subjected to no end of hard wear and still look crisp and fresh.

A modification of the gathered skirt was used. The sides of the skirt were laid in wide plaits. There was a short yoke across the front and the back to which the panels were gathered. The waist was perfectly plain, with set in sleeves ending in little cuffs of white lawn. A waistcoat of tan and white check gave a touch of color to the frock and an inner waistcoat

Marion Harland's Helping Hand

By Marion Harland

Home for Small Girl.

PERHAPS one of your readers knows of a little girl about 2 years old who needs a good home. We are not Roman Catholics, so cannot enter an adoption for the child mentioned in the Corner lately. We have found it hard to get a desirable child through the regular societies. There may be some one who would never turn a child over to an institution, and who would be glad to place her in this direct way. G.R.P.

Another home opens doors and hearts to a stranger to be adopted and made much of. It is a baby girl, homeless and orphaned (or worse), who is in demand. True mother love is offered here.

Offers Quilt Pieces.

"I had a nice note of thanks from Mrs. B. to whom I sent the boy's hat. I also had a lovely letter from Mrs. W. to whom I sent the silk scraps and doll. I have since sent her another package. I have given a suit case and laundry basket of clothes and boys' things to Mrs. M. P. to be sent to different poor people in the mountains, where toys, etc., are so longed for. I have packed another box for the same purpose. I thank you for supplying me with the addresses of these people. I will send some quilt pieces for some one who wishes to finish a quilt. Mrs. J. G."

"Thank you very much for sending me the address of Mrs. Lydia E. H. I sent her a small package of mixed beads, and was pleased to receive a nice letter of thanks from her. One cannot help but feel happy that even such a small act through the H. E. C. has been so appreciated. I will send more later on."

Lillian Russell's Beauty Secrets

By Lillian Russell

The Symmetrical Figure.

(Copyright, 1914, by Lillian Russell.)

Most persons have a difference between the development of the two sides is quite visible. If we examine the finest statues in this respect we shall find no such inequality. Indeed, one of the first objects which an able teacher of gymnastics proposes to do is to equalize the strength and skill of the two arms and legs. When you see either man or woman slouching along with one shoulder several inches lower than the other, you may know at once that they do not exercise their body in any way. The first rule in all exercises is to straighten up and walk correctly.

Frequently a want of symmetry is due to the bad habit of sleeping always on one side. Such a habit should never be indulged. It is ruinous to grace, and has, moreover, an injurious effect on the general health by displacing the internal organs and subjecting them to unequal pressure. One should sleep quite as often on one side as the other, and occasionally on the back, without a pillow.

Nothing requires circulation so quickly as lying flat upon the back without a pillow for half an hour. Persons who are accustomed to sleep together should change sides from time to time. This is especially important with children and young girls.

A want of symmetry in the shoulders is common among those who write, paint, or manure steadily. They should wear a shoulder brace, the pressure of which causes them to sit erect or suffer. They should also practice calisthenics whenever the opportunity presents itself.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

MRS. M.: Do not hesitate in having the adenoids removed from the child's throat, especially as your doctor recommends it. These growths are injurious to the child's health and should be removed. This probably is why he is pale and lacks interest in everything. Have them attended to immediately.

P. L.: The best way to stimulate growth of the eyebrows is to brush them gently every night and morning. Small brushes for this purpose are sold in the drug stores. A drop of some nourishing tonic should then be gently pressed on the brows. If you will send me a stamped addressed envelope I will send you the formula for French tonic for eyebrows. This is a splendid tonic. After applying the tonic start a little pinching movement, beginning at the corner and working toward the nose. Take a pinch of flesh between the thumb and first finger, and mass the little hairs in a line through the center. This treatment arches the brows and keeps the hair where it should grow. As the eyebrows become heavier they will look darker.

Enjoy a Long-Established and Well-Deserved Pre-eminence

THE story of our growth from a small housefurnishing store to the leading housefurnishing center of America is the story of the closest application to the needs of the public. Emerson said: "The secret of success is constancy to purpose." Our housefurnishing business has developed through the constancy to our purpose—in developing a store where every imaginable household article will be found. It was a genius for housefurnishings—an ability to build a comprehensive section for the furnishing of every known need in the household lines. That we have been successful is evidenced by the fact that our leadership in these lines is unquestioned—that we are pre-eminently the greatest housefurnishing store in America.

A STROLL through our 6th floor sections will surprise even those who may have thought that they had some idea of the true comprehensiveness of these sections. As you glance to the right and to the left you will see unusual and artistic adornments for your various rooms. On all sides you will find ingenious contrivances devised to lessen the drudgery of housework. "Completeness" has always been our keynote—and the only reason we haven't heard of it. We welcome those inventors and manufacturers who come to us with new ideas. We encourage their genius, because it means the addition of some new household article that we can add to our already vast collection.

Utensils That Make Your Kitchen Work a Pleasure

IN the more practical lines of housefurnishings we are truly in a class of our own. In cooking utensils we offer almost every known kind—at the same time only those kinds that we can conscientiously recommend. Here you will find imported nickel ware guaranteed for twenty-five years—the genuine Wear-Ever Aluminum Ware—the Vollrath White Enamel Ware and everything may be found in complete assortments. When you begin to use a certain ware you may be sure of always finding complete lines of that ware at The Fair. It would be an utter impossibility for us to attempt to price the almost innumerable articles in our cooking utensils section. The following list gives some idea of the range of prices in three of the leading makes:

- Nickel steel fry pans, 75c to 1.50.
- Nickel steel sauce pans, 1.50 to 2.25.
- Nickel steel casseroles, 1.25 to 2.50.
- Nickel steel tea kettles, 2.50 to 3.25.

Large Variety of Gas Logs and Other Hearth Goods

THIS is the season of the year when the mind turns to heating devices. The cool evenings that will soon be upon us and the chill of the morning—these require special heating fixtures. There are days when the furnace fire need not be started—when a gas log is more necessary. In these lines, we have everything that may be wanted for early winter—not only the gas logs but the andirons and fenders as well. You will be surprised, not only at the wonderful assortment of practical devices in this line, but at the low prices that prevail.

- Brass andirons, $3.25 to $18.00.
- Brass folding fire screens, $6.00 to $25.00.
- Brass fenders, $8 to $15.
- Brass fenders with leather padded seats $50 to $100.

PHONE CALL A MY

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 25.—[The body of Hazel Macklin, a girl, who disappeared on August 1, was found today in a vault at the St. Joseph's hospital. The girl, who was 21 years old, was found with a piece of her leg, which was knotted about the neck. The girl resided with her mother, C. Miller, in this city. Her father had been separated. She was a traveling salesman, heard from several years ago, and, Ind. The girl exhibited a tendency toward, and her relatives and her away from the city. They inserted an advertisement in a newspaper for a position for her or maid for a farmer's wife.

Offer of Place.
 On Aug. 15, Miller received a call from a man who did not name. He said that he was a farmer who lived between two miles from Spring Brook park, a resort midway between South Bend and Mishawaka. He said the man wanted to employ Miss Macklin for her little girl. He said he would meet the girl at Spring Brook park with a buggy. His wife would accompany him, and the girl would know the Dugard house which his wife Macklin boarded. A suburban car at 7 o'clock the morning carrying a satchel containing the children of the Sunday school. When her relatives did not hear they notified the police. Miss Macklin was a member of a school at the Westminster church, and, when she appeared the following Sunday, he visited the Miller home and enquired.

Two Uncover Bodies.
 Today Charles Hildreth, a 19-year-old boy, living at the edge of Island park, said he had found a body. He said he went to look for a body. He went to an old building there and noticed in a heap a red sweater. This was a glimpse of a girl's white dress. He called Lewis H. Murdoch, and they uncovered the body. Her clothing had been partially removed. There were several scars on her body, which Hildreth thought her attacker. Hildreth notified the police. The body was brought back here. They were assigned to trace the girl, which lured the girl to her death. He was unable to find a Dugard house. They learned that the girl had got off the car at a point park. It was a dark night. It was raining hard at the time. There was no one in the park as he ascertained.

Several Hear Screams.
 Island park is a quarter of the amusement park, and is a bridge over the river. Several were located by the police. They heard screams come from the night of Aug. 19. One of these is John H. Erickson, a 19-year-old boy, living near the Hildreth home. He said he did not stay in the park, because he was scared, and the screaming was heard.

FURNITURE MAN'S TO TESTIFY BEFORE

Mrs. E. A. Erickson V. Today at Inquiry In Frauds of Outfitting

The federal grand jury today further details of fraudulent sale of furniture complete home outfit "planned" by Mrs. E. Erickson, wife of a furniture dealer, who formed a store at 272 North La Salle, was named in connection with charges against Joseph R. Minneapolis, will appear before the grand jury. Holbrook was charged with concealing Erickson's furniture store, and in the hands of the Central bank as receiver. Large furniture said to belong to Erickson were found, the federal grand jury. It is alleged that Erickson had three houses in Chicago, and the furniture found under the name of "complete home outfit." Mrs. Erickson left Chicago in response to a subpoena.

SOUTH BEND GIRL FOUND MURDERED
IN PICNIC PARK

Body of Hazel Macklin, Who Vanished on August 19, Recovered; Strangled.

PHONE CALL A MYSTERY

South Bend, Ind., Oct. 25.—(Special.)—The body of Hazel Macklin, a 15 year old girl, who disappeared on Aug. 19, was found today in a vault at Island park, a picnic resort beside the St. Joseph river, a mile from the city. She had been strangled with a piece of her underclothing, which was knotted about her throat. The girl resided with her uncle, Charles C. Miller, in this city. Her father and mother had been separated. Her father, who is a traveling salesman, was last heard from several years ago in Hammond, Ind.

The girl exhibited a tendency to become nervous, and her relatives decided to send her away from the city for a while. They inserted an advertisement in a local newspaper for a position for her as nurse or maid for a farmer's wife.

Offer of Place.
On Aug. 19, Miller received a telephone call from a man who did not give his name. He said that he was a Dunbar farmer who lived between two and three miles from Spring Brook park, an amusement resort midway between South Bend and Mishawaka. He said that his wife wished to employ Miss Macklin as a nurse for her little girl. He told Miller he would meet the girl that evening at Spring Brook park with a horse and buggy. His wife would accompany him, and the girl would know them by the Dunbar bonnet which his wife wore.

Miss Macklin was a member of the Sunday school at the Westminster Presbyterian church, and when she failed to appear the following Sunday, her teacher visited the Miller home and made inquiries.

The children of the Sunday school then organized a searching party, and for two weeks they searched for a clue. At last they gave up the quest as hopeless.

Two Uncover Body.
Today Charles Hildreth, a farmer living at the edge of Island park, has broken the mystery. He needed a board and went to look for one in the park. He went to an old ramshackle building there and noticed in a vault beneath it a red sweater. Then he caught a glimpse of a girl's white shoe.

He called Lewis H. Murdoch, a neighbor, and they uncovered the girl's body. Her clothing had been partly torn from her. There were several scratches and scars on her body, which showed she had fought her attacker.

Hildreth notified the police, and the body was brought back here. Detectives were assigned to trace the telephone call which lured the girl to her death. They were unable to find a Dunbar farmer within a radius of several miles of Spring Brook park. They learned, however, that they had got off the car at the amusement park. It was a dark night and it was raining hard at the time. There was no one in the park as far as could be ascertained.

Several Hear Screams.
Island park is a quarter of a mile from the amusement park, and is reached by a bridge over the river. Several persons were located by the police who say they heard screams come from the park on the night of Aug. 19.

One of these is John Stink, who was passing near the Hildreth farm at the time, he said. He did not investigate, he explained, because he waited a few moments and the screaming was not continued.

FURNITURE MAN'S WIFE TO TESTIFY BEFORE JURORS.
Mrs. E. H. Erickson will appear today at inquiry into alleged frauds of Outfitting Company.

The federal grand jury today will hear further details of the alleged fraudulent sale of furniture by the "complete home outfit" plan when Mrs. E. H. Erickson, wife of the bankrupt furniture dealer, who formerly operated a store at 272 North avenue and who was named in connection with the suit against Joseph R. Holbrook of Minneapolis, will appear before the jury.

Holbrook was charged by the federal authorities with concealing assets of the bankrupt furniture store, recently placed in the hands of the Central Trust company as receiver. Large quantities of furniture were found to belong to the Ericksons and were found, the federal authorities say, in a house in Minneapolis and one in Milwaukee. It is alleged sales of furniture from these houses were advertised under the guise of disposing of complete home outfits.

Free Birthday Lunch at the So-Called Lonesome Club.

Any one who calls it a Lonesome club any more will receive at least a severe rebuke. It may have been a Lonesome club when it was started last year, but it isn't any more. Surely, no one was without friends at its first meeting of the year last night in the vestry of Trinity church at Twenty-sixth street and Michigan avenue. The club entered on its second year when a free supper was served. The supper followed a vespers service, an organ recital, and a special musical service in the morning in connection with the dedication of a new organ and altar. Hereafter the supper will cost 10 cents.

MEXICANS MIX;
300 ARE SLAIN

Carranza General Breaks Armistice and Leads Attack on Parral.

40 PRISONERS KILLED.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 25.—Gen. Maclovio Herrera, a Carranza follower, has broken the armistice fixed by the peace convention at Aguas Calientes by attacking Parral, Chihuahua, defended by a Villa garrison, according to official Constitutional advice received today in Juarez.

Travelers arriving here from Parral also told of the clash. In the battle, which occurred on Friday, the Herrera troops were driven off, although they had captured several positions in the town. The fight lasted five hours, in which time about 300 men were killed on either side.

Forty Prisoners Slaughtered.
As Herrera attacked, the Villa leaders disarmed forty of their own men who belonged to a group commanded by Gen. Manuel Chao, one of the delegates to the peace convention, on the charge that they intended to assist the Herrera troops.

These men were imprisoned in a building on the outskirts of the town. After the battle it was discovered that all had been killed. The Villa leaders charged that they had been slaughtered by Herrera's men.

Will Depose Carranza Today.
Aguas Calientes, Mexico, Oct. 25.—Vasquez Carranza will be deposed as first chief of the Constitutionalists and as acting provisional president when the peace conference reconvenes here tomorrow morning.

This ouster, according to unofficial announcement, will be accomplished through an agreement between the Villa and the Zapata delegates to the conference.

Twenty-eight delegates, representing Emiliano Zapata, the southern revolutionary, will be added to the conference when the sessions are resumed tomorrow. They have come by request of Gen. Villa and will act with the Villa delegates.

It is said that Carranza delegates, learning of the agreement, have decided to refrain from taking any further part in the conference.

'GENIUS' IS 'NUT' TO POLICE,
SO 'GENIUS' IS ARRESTED.

Despises Street Laxographer—Sergeant Gives His Meaning of Word and Is Taken Literally.
"Genius is abnormal."

This statement impressed Policeman George O'Connor of the Des Moines street station when he overheard a conversation at the station last night. He inquired of the desk sergeant as to the meaning of "abnormal."

"That means a 'nut,'" ventured the sergeant.

O'Connor remembered the definition. About 9 o'clock last night, while patrolling his beat, he noticed a crowd of "bums." He dispersed them, but one refused to be disturbed.

THE WEATHER.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1914.

For Chicago and vicinity—Fair Monday and Tuesday; not much change in temperature; moderate winds, mostly from west to north. For Illinois—Fair Monday and Tuesday; moderate, northwest to north winds.

THE CHICAGO DAILY TRIBUNE: MONDAY, OCTOBER 26, 1914. 15

WHEAT

RAILLIES WHEAT

Sales of 10,000,000 Bushels to Foreigners Big Factor; Longs Take Profits, DECEMBER CORN FIRM.

Report sales of wheat and flour last week have broken all trade records. Total sales in all positions were placed at 10,000,000 bushels or more, and appeared to be limited to the demand from the other side. All kinds of wheat, winter, spring, and hard, have been taken freely, and on Pacific coast ports have done a big week. Chicago cash prices advanced sharply relative to the December, and at the same time, while U. S. prices also advanced.

On the export buying, however, the picture of futures was disappointing on the whole, and from a speculative standpoint the traders appeared to regard the big sale as a market factor.

Foreign News Enormous.

Developments in foreign countries show the necessity for the heavy purchases of wheat. Crops were short generally, and many traders believe our large sale will have been fully as large without the aid of Australia. Reports indicate that a little hope for an exportable surplus in that country during the coming year. Russian shipments, which are being sent to the closing of the year, and Argentine shipments unwielded more uncertain by the operations of German cruisers.

Scandinavian countries that usually use their supplies of wheat and barley from Germany have been forced to turn to this country, and wherever the big western European countries whose ports are not blocked are using such provision against the war as possible. There is no reason to expect they will continue to do so, as a change in the fortunes of war might make the importation of necessary supplies impossible.

Canadian Crop Is Short.

Wheat matters were for foreign buyers, the crop in Canada was expected to be much smaller than was expected last year. Late reports say that the crop is short, and that the country is expected to be short of wheat for the coming year. The export demand is high, and the country is expected to be short of wheat for the coming year.

WAR LIMIT

INSURANCE RISK

Toll Taken of Younger Men Likely to Hurt Future of the Business.

FORM ILLINOIS UNION.

New York, Oct. 25.—[Special.]—Wall Street is not so confident as it was a week ago that the interstate commerce commission will reverse itself and hand down a decision allowing the eastern railroads to increase their freight rates 5 per cent. In any suit or investigation in which the financial district is interested, great importance is always attached to the questions asked by the presiding judge. In hearing last week's testimony in the rate case, the commissioners asked many leading questions, which, from the Wall Street viewpoint, were anything but encouraging.

Would Prevent Gold Exports.

For example, Judge Clements, who was presiding in the place of Harlan, asked Daniel Willard if he thought the railroads should be given aid which had been refused other industries affected by war conditions. Commissioner Meyer wanted to know if in asking for an increase in freight rates at this time the railroads were not trying to shift the burden of war conditions onto the shoulders of the American shipper.

National Insurance at Crisis.

Acting as special counsel for the commission Louis D. Brandeis asked Willard if increasing freight rates would prevent the railroads from doing business. Willard answered that the railroads would not be prevented from doing business, but that the rates would be increased.

Why Favor Railroad?

Willard's answer to the question raised at this point was that the railroads were the only means of transportation for the country, and that they were the only means of transportation for the country.

State Federations Being Formed.

Already state federations have been organized in Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Indiana, Michigan, Kansas, and Missouri. These federations are being formed for the purpose of protecting the interests of the state in the war.

Auto Liability Rates Reduced.

Considerable interest is being taken in the fact that the rates for auto liability insurance have been reduced. This is due to the fact that the rates for auto liability insurance have been reduced.

Believe Bourse at Paris Will Be Reopened Soon.

Business men there optimistic and Finance Minister is Aiding Their Efforts. The Paris Bourse is expected to be reopened soon, and business men there are optimistic about the future of the market.

WOMEN'S WEAR.

An English manufacturer of cotton goods has been offering thirty-six inch printed velvets in New York and in other cities. The velvets are made in a similar fabric only thirty inches wide, and are being offered at a low price. The manufacturer is offering the velvets at a low price, and is hoping to sell a large quantity of them.

WRECK SHOP; HURTS BOY

Heater Demolished and Mirrors Broken When Youth Starts Fire with Kindling for His Father. The police are investigating a mysterious explosion which injured Anthony Magliano, 12 years old, and partially destroyed the heater of Joseph Magliano, 40 years old, at 4108 Westworth avenue last night. The boy was hurt by the explosion, and the heater was destroyed.

HOUSING EXPERT WARNS SPRINGFIELD OF FLATS.

Declares Tenements Which Already Have Appeared There Merit the Severe Condemnation. Springfield, Ill., Oct. 25.—The survey report on housing conditions in Springfield made by John Hinder of the National Housing association shows that in this field Springfield has an unusual opportunity to set and keep good standards. The report shows that the tenements in Springfield are in a poor state of repair, and that they are a danger to the health of the people.

We Announce a Special Showing of Costume-Suits—$40, $45, $50

NOTHING hackneyed can be found in the fashions presented in these groups. A wide latitude for a personal preference is offered even unto those who have something very definite in mind as to the particular suit or frock they seek.

Costume-Suits at $40, $45, $50

These are developed in velvete, of a really remarkable quality, in the new dark shades.

The velvete suit at the right is one of many equally attractive suits in these collections. The long coat may do duty as a separate coat if that be desired. The broadtail cloth on collar and cuffs and the banding is seen on many modish suits this season. $50.

Other costume-suits of velvete at $40, $45, $50 and $55 in beautiful shades of blue, green, amethyst, brown and black, and silk-plush costume-suits, trimmed with fur, $85 and $95.

Tailored suits in the large sizes—40 to 51-inch bust measurement—are here in all the suit fabrics and the many new and becoming modes of the season.

Attractive Afternoon Frocks at $40, $45, $50

Artistic combinations of malines and charmeuse—of velvet and charmeuse—produce these very charming afternoon frocks.

The sketch at the left shows an afternoon frock of malines and charmeuse—the full tunic and long transparent sleeves of malines, the skirt and bodice of charmeuse—and the collar and vest of white silk crepe. $40.

Then—a particularly attractive collection of silk frocks and of serge combination frocks offers splendid value at $18.75 to $30.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

A Sale of Exclusive Novelty Trimming Laces

About 15,000 yards, all told, were included in this purchase, which happened in such a way as to allow our presenting most surprising values in just the sort of trimming laces with which so many of the new blouses, evening gowns, and party frocks are trimmed.

Included in this immense assortment are: handsome colored net lace novelties, gold and silver tinsel lace novelties, real Lierre and Princess lace flouncings and rich Chantilly lace flouncings in all black, white and cream.

All late importations, and it will repay you to secure all the trimmings you need now or anticipate needing for winter frocks.

—special, at 95c, $1.45, $1.95, $2.95 and $3.95 Yard

An Offering of Several Hundred Yards of Double-Width Allovers at 68c Yard

Double-width (42-inch) shadow lace allovers, double-width white, cream, black and colored silk net allovers—also 68-inch wash-blond nets in white and cream, particularly desirable for making the new lace blouses now so popular. First Floor, North Room.

These Sitka Fox Sets, $45

Pictured is a representative value to be found in these fur collections this season.

These Sitka fox sets are of exceptionally silky skins—a pillow muf with large natural fox brush, a scarf with head and bush tail. Price, $45 set.

Natural mink five-stripe pillow muf, $50. Others $75, $85, and upward to $150.

Natural mink two-skin scarfs in several models at $25. Four and six-skin fancy shawls at $55, $65 and up to $135.

Hudson Seal coats in all the desired lengths with the full ripple skirt, plain or with collar of—fitch, skunk, fox or ermine, $75, $85, $125 and upward to $330.

A full line of children's and misses' sets is being shown in which all the popular furs are represented.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

Georgette Crepe Blouses, $6.50

FILMY Georgette crepe—that bewitching blouse fabric—in a soft shade of cream, combined with broad bands of fine mesh lace and dainty handiwork

—and you have one of the most fascinating blouses in a section where all blouses seem so very attractive.

As to fashion details—the sleeves are of the Georgette crepe, long and trimmed in lace—the collar of lace—and high at the back—the vest of lace. And the blouse is specially priced at $6.50.

Fourth Floor, North Room.

Night Dresses at $1.50

Ten styles to choose from—and all are so pretty to choose between them is difficult.

Here are night dresses with yokes of lace and embroidery with sleeves of lace, ribbon trimmed.

Or very simple—but effective gowns with “V” shaped neck—trimmed with fine tucking and embroidery.

The quality of the nainsook recommends itself at sight—so fine and durable is it.

Third Floor, North Room.

Imported 52-Inch Broadcloths, $2.50

A collection of chiffon-weight broadcloths, of a quality highly recommended for service, is offered in a broad assortment of shades including Russian green, tete de negre, plum, navy blue and black, at a price quite unusual for this grade. $2.50 yard.

2,500 Yards of Crepe de Chines Printed on White Grounds, 40 ins. Wide, $1.75

The facts regarding one of the best silk offerings of this season are summed up in the headlines. These crepe de Chines are printed in dainty floral effects on white grounds—predominating colors being pink, ciel, lilac, rose, purple and brown.

They are full 40 inches wide and the assortment is conspicuous for the many charming effects it contains and the remarkably fine sheer quality at such a price as $1.75 yard.

Roman Stripe Moire Silks $1.10 Yard

Much in demand for trimming purposes—in the 20-inch width at $1.10 yard.

Black Crepe Meteore, $1.85 & $2.85 Yd.

Two exceptional values in these satin-faced crepe fabrics. One is 40 inches wide, the other is 42 inches wide—$1.85 and $2.85 yard.

All-Silk Jersey Petticoats, $3.75

The quality of the silk Jersey in these petticoats is far out of the ordinary.

The “flexible” pleated flounce is particularly suited to the new flare skirts. The color range includes all the new street shades—

So that these silk Jersey petticoats are exceptionally interesting at the price, $3.75.

Silk Jersey petticoats with the “flexible” flounce of peau de cygne are especially priced at $2.95. Third Floor, North Room.

A Wealth of New Modes in Recently-Designed Hats At $15

ARTISTIC blending of velvet and fur—of velour and flowers—produces these newest chapeaux. Particularly attractive are the hats in the new wine shades.

The hat at the left is a snug, close turban of wine-color velvet, rimmed in seal fur and ornamented with dull gold braid. $15.

The hat at the right shows an original conception of the small sailor. The black marten fur is very effective with the broadcloth of wine color. $15.

These are but two of the many charming hats in these assortments—where no two are alike and all equally attractive.

Fifth Floor, South Room.

New Imported Hand-Embroidered Albatross Negligees

Specially Shown at $4.75, $7.75 to $12.75

The exquisite hand-work—the splendid quality of the French albatross—the delicate shades of rose, blue, pink and lavender—all conspire to make these new negligees so irresistible.

The illustration shows one of six different styles priced at $7.75. The collar—delightfully original in cut—is of white albatross, hand-embroidered in color to match the negligee, as are the dainty cuffs. Special, $7.75.

At $4.75—the negligees are embroidered in a delicate design over front and back.

At $12.75—the hand-worked scallops are frilled in net. And so each one, up to the very elaborate robes at $29.50, will be found equally charming.

Third Floor, North Room.

Little Yoke Dresses for Baby at 85c, $1, $1.50 and $1.95

These, the cutest of little frocks for baby, of soft, sheer materials, daintily embroidered by hand, present such values as are seldom to be found in baby dresses.

The baby frock illustrated at the right is priced at $1. The tiny tucks are separated by delicate hand-work. And a wee ruffle of embroidery and tucks borders the skirt.

The other little frocks at 85c and $1.50 are exquisitely trimmed in delicate “baby” lace and ribbons.

And at the left is the baby frock priced at $1.95. The yoke is formed by fine lace and embroidery. The skirt is finished at the bottom with tiny tucks and lace.

Third Floor, North Room.

MARSHALL FIELD & COMPANY

Abnormal conditions abroad have proved the efficiency of our section for

French Millinery

No stronger evidence of the permanent character of this business could be offered than the manner in which our French Millinery Section has risen above the handicaps of the present military situation in Paris.

For a number of years our expert designers have followed closely the trend of French thought in millinery, and although for the present few new modes are emanating from Paris, our designers are able to carry their work forward because of the closeness of past associations. Some of our designers have lived in Paris, studied in French ateliers, and all have absorbed the spirit of the French world of fashion until they are thoroughly imbued with its every aim, emotion and idea.

The result is this: When War stayed the skillful fingers of the French designers and the production and shipment of advanced Millinery modes was brought almost to a standstill our own designers were enabled to continue the work where the milliners of Paris dropped it. Without a pause our organization has gone ahead with the designing of high-grade French Millinery.
